

Edgefield Doctors at Harris Lithia.

Edgefield was represented at Harris Lithia Springs last week, on the occasion of the annual meeting of the South Carolina Medical Association, by Drs. F. W. P. Butler, J. G. Tompkins and Robert Malvin Marsh, of our town, and Dr. D. Walter Outzs, of Elmwood. Drs. Butler and Outzs have long been members of the Association. Drs. Tompkins and Marsh joined it on this occasion. Our Edgefield men were delighted with Harris Lithia Springs—her site, her water, her management, her resources, her amusements and her courteous officials. Indeed so delighted were they that they voted enthusiastically with all the rest of the South Carolina doctors to meet at Harris Lithia Springs again next summer. Dr. Alvin Marsh, who is young and handsome and tippy and giddy, declares that he must go back to Harris Lithia Springs later on, to row pretty girls on the lovely lake, and to shoot the shoots from the heights above the lake down into the rippling waters. In these days, beyond all doubt, Harris Lithia Springs is the bright particular star of South Carolina.—Edgefield Chronicle.
